"A Druggist's Sad Fall." To the Editor of the Globe-Republic

Siz: -- In your jast Tuesday's paper appeared a piece headed, "A Druggist's Sad Fail." We wish to correct a few mistakes made in it, as we are well acquainted with Mr. Bowen, and know something about his disappearance.

He went to Cincinnati from here, but has only spent one week there, counting all the days together that he was there; the rest of the time has been spent with his uncle at Sharonville and his cousin at Miamiville.

He has not been in any scrapes with low woman as stated, or spent his money that way. Dr. Morey is not a "pal," but an enemy of the worst kind, as is also the person that had that piece printed. It was got up to ruin him, but cannot do so, as he has friends that will help him. Mr. Bowen has done what few men will do: he has lost everything (but his honor) to help a friend out of trouble, and that is what took him away. He did not leave mysteriously, but went in daylight, and his friends knew he was going. He has not been traveling with any quack or seiling

A CHEEKY BURGLAR.

Frightened Away Once, He Returns

About 3 o'clock this morning a neighbor, who happened to be out late, saw a man attempting to get into the house at Charles M. Clark's residence, No. 359 East High street. The burglar had put a ladder up to the top of N. J., this morning, where he will attend the verands at the rear on the east side of the house and was trying to raise the window. E. C. Tillinghast, of Columbus, general The gentleman rang the door-bell to awaken the family and the burglar skipped out. The family was aroused, but as all the excitement was over all were soon asleep left for Long Branch Saturday, to attend the again. Hardly halt an hour had elapsed before the servant was awakened by a noise at her window. She looked up and found a man at her window who had raised the sash and was just on the point of climbing in. She screamed and the visitor quietly crept down the ladder and carried it away. He did not come back. Doubtless this is the same individual who has been working Foos's, Bushnell's and other places in that vicinity. the past year, returned to this city this morn- There is strong suspicion that he resides not two squares away from the scene of Sunday night's depredation

THE MOVING TRAIN

Kills a Stranger on the I. B. & W. Track Near Bellefontaine.

Yesterday a stranger met a sad death from injuries supposed to have been received from an I. B. & W. train. The men on a south bound freight last Saturday night found a man lying at the side of the track about three miles south of Bellefontaine. His head was fractured and cut in several places, his shoulder was dislocated and he was severely bruised about the body. He was well dressed and had once been a handsome man. He was taken to West Libcity, where he died yesterday. The only means of identification was a letter in his pocket addressed to George Lewis, Norwalk, O. The authorities of Norwalk have been notified of his death. It is supposed that he had attempted to board the passenger train coming down a few hours before. He never regained consciousness to tell his story.

The county commissioners met in regular quarterly session this morning at the auditor's office. Bills were allowed as follows: J. S. Goode, gravel, $33.96; J. L. Minnich, healing, $36; David Carter, hauling, $121,26; Harry Haroish, graveling, $152.81; James Hatfield, hauling, $64.80; Frank D. Yos. road work, $16.53. This afternoon the board is hearing the application of Hattie Sawyer and others for a new road in Pike township, with the probability that the application will be granted and engineers and viewers appointed.

The Sale Set Aside.

In the Common Pleas court this morning Judge Calvin D. Wright, of Troy, in accordance with an amicable arrangement between the parties in the Kinney-Creighton case, set the sale aside. The issuance of an alias order of sale was suspended for forty days, in order to give the Kinney heirs a chance to pay off the judgments against them, which they expect to do within that time. The motion was submitted without argument.

Convenient Political Faith. [From Morning Edition.]

Last night a group of men were talking politics in front of Straley's cigar store on Main street when Wes. McMillen got off the following: "It looks to me as though Harwood and the Gazette were going to flop to the democracy again. Harwood's like a tree-frog, anyhow, always the same color as the rail or limb he's liting on. During the convention here he was a red-hot republican. As I was coming home from the democratic convention at Columbus I found Harwood on the train. I asked him how he came to be m nkeying around the democrats, and he blandly replied, 'That's my kind.' They say he's a prohib, whenever he passes the Center Street Church.'' Lest night a group of men were talking fault is his generosity.
